Morgan Danielle Manning

FEBRUARY 6, 2003 - APRIL 8, 2017

Our Story

At the very young age of 14, our beloved daughter, Morgan Danielle Manning suddenly died from a rare heart condition called CPVT (Catecholaminergic Polymorphic Ventricular Tachycardia).

CPVT is a malfunction in the heart's electrical system, causing the heart to stop beating suddenly and unexpectedly. The prevalence of CPVT is estimated to be about 1 in 10,000 people. However, the true widespread presence of this condition is unknown and there currently is no cure.

When Morgan died, it felt like a piece of our heart was suddenly gone. That is why we named this charity A Piece of My Heart Foundation, to ultimately find a cure for this disease. Thank you for partnering with us to save lives!

Our Mission

To promote awareness, aid in medical research and support children diagnosed with CPVT by providing funding for Automated External Defibrillators (AEDs), genetic testing, and CPR training.

Our Impact

- APOMHF donated AEDs to all of the Middle Schools in Pasadena Unified School District, along with maintenance and CPR training!
- APOMHF is currently funding a CPVT Research Coordinator for the Pediatric & Congenital Electrophysiology Society ("PACES"), the largest collection of international patients from the pediatric electrophysiology community & largest society of pediatric heart rhythm specialists in the world!
